Dyspepsia
AND
Liver
Disease
CURED BY
DR. PIERCE'S
GOLDEN
DISCOVERY.

"I was weak, nervous and dizzy, with a fainting sensation when walking," writes J. J. Childers, Esq., of Danville, Sullivan Co., Tenn. "Could not walk any distance, always felt bad after eating; felt as though something was sticking in my throat, always uneasy in stomach. Doctored with three physicians but they did not relieve me. I grew worse and used everything I could think of, was nearly ready to give up and then some one told me that Dr. Pierce's medicine was good, so I began taking his Golden Medical Discovery." I have taken seven bottles of that now and am as stout as ever, and enjoying health as much as ever before. I worked all summer and this winter as much as any one. My case was liver disease and nervous dyspepsia of which your medicine has cured me. In September 1898 my weight was about 65 pounds, now it is 115. Please accept my sincere thanks."

SHARPSBURG (OR ANTIETAM).

Lee's army crossed the Potomac on the 5th and 6th of September, 1862.

The battles of Second Manassas and Ox Hill road had been fought and won, two federal generals having been killed in the latter battle, Kearney and Stevens. Pope's army had been sent flying back upon the strongholds of Washington considerably reduced in number and greatly demoralized. General Mc-Clellan, the hero of Richmond, had again been called to the command of the federals, and he and Lee were again to meet in deadly combat.

Proceeding to Frederick, Md., Gen Lee received the information that Harper's army was still in possession of the enemy. To leave so strong a position in his rear, and on his line of communication, could not be thought of, and he concluded to capture it. On the 10th, Jackson, with his own corps and two divisions of Longstreet was instructed to return and take such steps as were necessary to surround and seize the garrison. With his usual promptitude these orders were strictly carried out. Two days before the fall of Harper's Ferry (which occurred on the morning of the 15th, when over eleven thousand men, seventy-three guns, thirteen thousand stand of arms, and numerous military stores fell into our hands), the position of our troops was as follows: D. H.

Hill, with one division was at South Mountain; Longstreet, with two divisions was at Hagerstown, thirteen miles distant; while Jackson, with the remainder of the army, seven divisions, was advancing on Harper's Ferry, from seven to ten miles away. The federal army had concentrated and moved up the eastern slope of the mountain, and on the 14th began to fight for our position. Coming in contact with Mumford's cavalry, supported by Mahone's brigade of infantry, in Crampton's Gap, a fierce battle ensued, which was continued into the night, the enemy being held in check.

On the same day a strong demonstration was made against D. H. Hill at South Mountain, (or Boonsboro) and a sanguinary conflict followed. Hill was reinforced by Longstreet's two divisions, who hastened from Hagerstown to give support. The fighting became terrible and was carried far into the night. In this battle the Seventeenth Virginia regiment, Alexandria's pride and glory, bore a conspicuous part.

These two battles saved to the Confederates the stronghold of Harper's Ferry, which Jackson was about to force from the enemy's hands.

Having accomplished his design of keeping his rear open, immediately after the surrender of the army at Harper's Ferry General Lee concentrated his army at Sharpsburg. By the morning of the 16th, our lines were in readiness. Longstreet held the right and center, supported by D. H. Hill; Jackson held the left and Stuart's cavalry held position on the extreme left. The enemy, during the 16th, felt our position with his artillery, and later in the day made a strong attack with his infantry on Longstreet's left. This was handsomely repulsed after several hours hard fighting.

The 17th, just forty years ago this date, was the day of the great battle, the greatest that had ever been fought on this Continent. In this sanguinary conflict the Alexandrians covered themselves with glory. To give a full description would take too much space; suffice it to say that both armies fought with desperation; first one and then the other were forced back, and when the terrible contest ceased, considerably after dark, neither side was in condition to renew it. The 17th Virginia when counting up their losses found seventy per cent of their number absent. All had fallen on the field, or were counted with the missing. Only a corporal's guard was left to tell the tale.

From September 12th to 20th, inclusive, the total losses of both armies aggregated 39,832. Confederate, 11,808; Federal 27,994.

PROPHCY IN FIREWORKS.—There are, as usual, stories of premonitions of the accession of President Roosevelt.

State Senator John Laughlin tells that not over four weeks ago, while a display of fireworks was being made at the Pan-American Exposition grounds, a huge picture of the then Vice President was shown in fire. Underneath it were the words "Our Vice President."

Hardly had the picture been lighted when the word "Vice" burned out and left standing in huge letters under Mr.
Roosevelt's picture the words: "Our President." In a minute or two the word "our" accidentally burnt out, so had the other word, and for fully seven minutes the single word "President!" stood out in bold relief.

Senator Laughlin says that everybody in the place was impressed with the strange occurrence.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of C. Moberg's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of this trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by Richard Gilson, druggist.

TO ACCOMMODATE those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for croup, whooping cough, etc., the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membranes and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

Norris Silver, North Stratford, N. H.: "I purchased a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure when suffering with a cough doctors told me was incurable. One bottle relieved me, the second and third almost cured me. Today I am a well man. For sale by E. S. Leach, host and Son.
